OLD GUARD LEATHER VS. GENERATION X

by Marcus-lay Wonacott

"I'm curious about SM, but the leather bar scene is so intimidating. I guess I should just let somebody pick me up, but I'm afraid to do that. I don't really know what I'm doing. Where do you go to learn the basics?"

"This man I've been dating wants me to top him. The idea of dominating him gives me a major hard-on, but I'm afraid I might hurt him or, even worse, look inept."

"My lover and I have been doing SM together privately for almost a year. We don't have any friends in the leather scene. Lately our scenes have started to go sour, and I'm not sure what's wrong. I wish there were somebody I could ask for a little advice."

These comments are legitimate concerns. How do we communicate information about SM technique, coming out and relationships within the leather community? There used to be an easy answer. One generation of leathermen passed their knowledge and experience to the next. AIDS has disrupted this natural process. A whole generation of committed and experienced men of kink are no longer around to teach what they know and believe is good SM. Ironically, our community has also undergone a population explosion. We are no longer a tightly-knit underground where everyone knows (or knows of) every other leatherman. These changes have left an obvious gap between experienced individuals and up-and-coming novices.

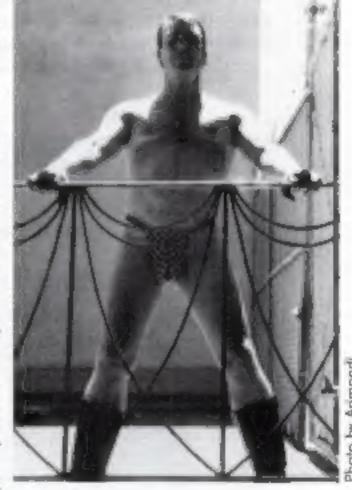

But you can't stop time. The next generation of leathermen (and women) are coming out of the closet. Many members of the so-called Generation X have been experiencing SM and fetish all on their own, making up their own rules. When I speak to younger members of the leather community, it sometimes seems to me that they have little concept of the history, norms or role models that guided my own development as a leatherman. This heritage was far from perfect; some things that worked for us a decade ago are no longer valid. And the established hierarchy of our community hasn't exactly reached out to these younger men. So it's not surprising if they disdain the men who have gone before them. But it means they sometimes wind up reinventing the wheel.

As Generation X observes Old Guard Leather, the response is to blow off the "old guys" as rigid, unbending and out of touch with personal expression. In turn, we regard these "boys" as trendy, undesirable and downright dangerous. We tend to be protective of our traditions because we know what has worked for the past 20 to 30 years. What can be done to close the gap?

One possibility is to establish the role of mentoring for interested men who are willing to listen to each other. Many of the Old Guard are a wealth of information and experience which is worth preserving and sharing. Leathermen in their 20s have a lot of energy, enthusiasm and spontaneity which could revitalize our entire community. We need to start thinking about who is going to run our clubs and organizations in the next 20 years. It's time to get over the stereotypes and find some common ground.

Leathermen "of a certain age" need to be respectful of the identities and experiences of younger men. SM play is much more accessible than it was when we came out. Some of these youthful-appearing slaves and masters have logged more hours in the dungeon than I did at their age. We should also remember that mentorship is not necessarily the same thing as training a new bottom. In the '70s, if you took someone on as an apprentice, they might be serving you as a slave, or they might be working with you as a junior S, an assistant master. Even in a highly-structured dominant/submissive relationship, communication has to run in two directions.

On the other hand, there's no substitute for the experience gleaned just by having spent a certain number of years looking for the ultimate SM scene or the perfect SM relationship. Old Guard leathermen know how to do more than just survive. We know how to create satisfying lives that support our erotic interests. The modern, aboveground leather community was built on the solid foundation of our personal networks of friends, fuck buddies and lovers. We are the ones who made it safe for leathermen to be more public about their sexuality. The tradition we established of holding fundraisers when friends were in trouble with the police or had motorcycle accidents is so strong today that the leather community is one of the primary supporters of agencies that serve people with AIDS. We have always taken care of our own.

There is the possibility that, together, older and younger leathermen may discover new and interesting parts of ourselves. It seems the common ground both groups share is the desire to play hard and feel good. We all share the tension beween wanting as much intensity as possible and the common-sense need to keep our SM safe, sane and consensual. If we can keep reminding ourselves that no one is old enough to accept being jaded and no one is too young to justify writing off what has been successful in the past, we will become a united community that can take pride in its inclusiveness.

It's becoming more and more obvious that there are forces in American society which would like to obliterate our community. It is up to us to keep our lifestyle alive and prospering. Mentorship is nothing more nor less than a vital form of self-preservation. What you know and have experienced is worth passing on. What you don't know may be what our future will be all about.

HIELES

Call

Dear Editor:

I was recently sent a subscription to Brummer as a gift. Not having seen your publication in a number of years, I was more than excited to page through a magazine for mon that aroused me both physically and mentally.

But it was seeing Mr.

Graylin Thornton and reading his editorial (Issue 174) that really pushed my buttens! I have always believed that in any healthy leather/SM relationship, the respect of slave to Master must be acknowledged with a return. of that respect from Master to slave. After reading these same thoughts from a man as commanding as Mr. Thornton, how cauld you not want to kneel at his feet and beg for the apportunity to earn his respect?

I humbly thank you for a great magazine and respectfully honor Mr. Thernton for helping to raise the image of slave to a position of absolute submission and obedience through pride and respect. Not from the position of fear and the brutality of the chains of the past!

J.B. Philadelphia, PA

Dear Editor:

Being relatively new to Drummer and being old and set in my ways, it will take a bit of getting used to the new format. But if you keep the quality as it has been, then it will be all right.

One suggestion.
Wouldn't it be of interest to see the Mr. Drummers and Drummerboys as they are today and as they were when they won? I don't think it has been done in the last three years that I have subscribed. Although some, like John Hare, Cliva Platman, and Brian Dawson can be seen on video.

Dear L.S.:

We always appreciate readers' suggestions!

MJW

Dear Editor:

You homophobic bastard! How dare you have women working for Drummer and MACH! Assholes like you always try to make sure everything is bisexual or heterosexual and not gay male or SM gay male. I will not purchase another of your publications that has Pat Califia or any other weman working on it. I am glad that Desmoous, Inc. is no longer the only option for gay SM men! I pray that you and she contract AIDS in Jesus' name, amen.

D.V.S. Columbus, OH

Dear D.V.S .:

Pat Califia brings more than 10 years of experience working as an editor and fiction writer to Desmodus. She was formerly the editor of Advocate Men and other Liberation Publications sex magazines. She has several pieces of high-quality goy male SM erotics in print. Her primary function here is to edit our pansexual publication, the SandMutopia Guardian, but she also solicits, revises, and proofreads fiction and nonfiction features for our other publications.

She says, "My goal is to help make Drummer, MACH, Tough Customers, DungeonMaster, and the SandMutopia Guardian the hottest and most informative SM magazines possible. My editorial skills are genderneutral, and I am a long-time supporter of the men's leather community. Since I'm queer myself, I have very little investment in 'forcing' anybody to be bisexual or heterosexual."

The rest of your letter will not be dignified by a response.

MIW

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend Brummer and Mr. Marcus for the fine article that was written about Vi Johnson (Issue 173). It was written in a superb manner and style that only Mr. Marcus could have captured. I have known Vi for many (many) years and was happy to see her written about in a fashion that she deserves.

On a broader note, I wish to compliment
Desmodus for publishing articles about women in your predeminantly male magazine. The women in our leather/SM/fetish community are a vital part of our existence. However, they are not always given credit for their contributions to our lifestyle. Thank you for helping to bridge that gap.

In solidarity and brotherhood, Mark Frazier Mr. NLA International 1994

Dear Editor:

I would like to compliment you on the magazine's new look. The past five or six issues have been heavenly. You have upgraded your choice of models too. Now I have pictures I can really beat off to! And the stories are improving. I loved Matt Walker's "A Tame Animal" in Issue 174. Keep it up! Also, the illustration on page 21 by Harry Bush was a real pulse-pounder. Sincerely.

With the new International Mr. Leather, Jeffrey Tucker of San Jose, CA, now ensashed, as well as most of the Gay/Lesbian Pride parades now history, and the Stonewall 25 celebration in New York a success, eyes turn westward for the fall season and everyone in our tribe knows what that means! Leather Pride Week in San Francisco, September 18-25. Kicking off a week of leather-oriented activities is the 3rd Annual Leatherwalk starting at the Headquarters Bar in the Castro and winding up at the San Francisco Eagle in the "leather zone," South of Market, on Sunday, September 18. On Tuesday, September 20 is Aussie Night (location pending). Wednesday the 21st brings back the ever popular International Mr. Drummer contestant's "Basket Auction," while Fetish & Fantasy explodes on Thursday night, the 22nd as well as the grand opening of Drummer's Leather Fetish Expo at the San Francisco Concourse (8th & Brannan Streets). Drummer's newest event, "Whiplash — A Dance Party" happens on Friday along with a dungeon play party at a special location. Saturday, September 24 is the International Mr. Drummer Finals starting at 8 p.m. at the Concourse followed on Sunday by the 300,000 strong Folsom Street Fair. Not to be missed. Leathermen and -women from around the world congregate for this one.

In the meantime, there are other events that might be of interest to you hither and yon:

August 5-7: Bear lovers and men of that persuasion can gather in Portland, Oregon for Bear Prowl '94 by the Cascade Bears. For a $75 weekend fee, you'll be offered all sorts of amenities guaranteed to make life "bearable." Contact Cascade Bears, Inc., 1101 S.W. Washington St., Suite 125, Portland, OR 97205 or call (503) 323-6071.

August 19-20: Constantines of the Bay Area MC offer their weekend run. "Blazing Saddles." Headed for Big Basin State Park, the run is only $90 or $105 after August 13. Always a popular event, the run is limited to 80 persons. Contact Constantines, P.O.

Box 424964, San Francisco, CA 94142.

August 19-21: Fantasy '94 in Omaha, Nebraska, is a gathering of the sash rash group from all over the country. They converge on the Gateway to the West City for Dustin Logan's annual event, co-sponsored by The Leather Journal. "Mr. and Ms. This-and-That" will be there to perform fantasies for your pleasure. Always great interaction! Contact: Dustin Logan, (402) 346-8577.

August 19-21: Wasatch Leathermen MC in Salt Lake City, throw their 10th Anniversary, Falcon Flight 10 weekend. Contact them at P.O. Box 1311, Salt Lake City, UT 84110-1311.

September 2-5: Powersurge, the big Leather/SM dyke conference in Seattle happens this weekend. The theme this year is "Seattle Madness." Contact Powersurge, 1202 E. Pike St. #819, Seattle, WA 98122 or call (206) 233-8429.

September 2-5: The Centaur Club of Washington, DC sends off their Olympia Run XIII in Oxford, PA. The cost is $170 for three days of fun and frolic, bike events, shows, great food, and booze. Contact Centaur MC, P.O. Box 34193, Washington, DC 20043. Their hotline number is (301) 735-6377.

September 15-19: Europeans and foreigners alike will flood to Oktoberfest in Munich, Germany. The oom-pah-pah mixed with leather/SM/bikers converges for this historic celebration. Their FAX number is (8) 89 53 2293. The cost to you is 70 DM. Contact address is: Postfach 33 01 63, Munich, Germany 80061.

September 17: The Regiment of the Black & Tans in Los Angeles are having their Platinum 20th Anniversary on this Saturday. Look forward to a spiffy gathering of uniforms as only uniforms are worn in the City of the Angels. Contact: Regiment of Black & Tans, P.O. Box 291157, Los Angeles, CA 90029.

September 18-26: Leather Pride Week in San Francisco. Read my opening of this column about Baghdad by the Bay's not-to-be-missed leather phenomenon.

Whatever you end up doing, do it safe and do it in leather!

by Marcus-Jay Wonacett

As the evening sky fades from light blue to a deeper shade of purple, the warm air in the Village is charged with excitement. Men and women milling in and out of shops and bars greet each other in relaxed and friendly acknowledgments. Hundreds of thousands of gays and lesbians have flooded into New York City to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the now-famous Stonewall riots. This festive atmosphere is in marked contrast to the evening during the summer of '69 when outraged gays ripped up parking meters and kept the cops at bay. Due to the defiant actions from several fed-up drag queens and other faggots, we have come a long way, baby. It's generally agreed that this single event marks the advent of present-day gay and lesbian liberation.

This gives us cause to reflect on where we have come from and where we are yet to go. One of the official T-shirts being sold at the edge of Sheridan Square displays a grid of bricks, one of which holds the date of 1969. No other date is to be seen. Why? Most likely because our cause is yet to be won.

A vast number of events were happening simultaneously all over Manhattan, making it difficult to find time to eat or sleep, let alone get more acquainted with new friends from out of town. The Leather/SM/Fetish Celebration at the Grand Hyatt drew hundreds of leatherfolk from the far reaches of the USA and Europe. Workshops, demos and a well-stocked leather marketplace confirmed the diversity of our leather tribe. Organized by members of GMSMA, Eulenspiegel Society, and some New York leathermen, our presence around town as well as during the March on the United Nations was obvious. Fantastic Realities and Drummer magazine pulled off another "Come Together" party attended by many. The ever-popular Leather Night Auction was once again incredibly successful, raising thousands of dollars for local charities. All the auspicious presenters there had a raucous and public-spirited Abriefaltercation within the leather contingent marred the beginning of the march when some organizers tried to prevent a San Francisco leatherwoman from cracking her bullwhip. But even that conflict could not dampen the enthusiasm of leathermen and -women, many of whom had traveled thousands of miles to proclaim their pride through the streets of New York City and into Central Park.

For me, the crowning moment of the weekend was undoubtedly the moment of silence on Sunday at 3 p.m. Right in the middle of the march, you could hear a pin drop for blocks as men, women, gay, straight, and in between, hugged, held hands, and shared deep emotion for all those who have passed on due to AIDS. A moment later, the streets exploded with the sounds of rage for our government's inaction which still prevents any kind of relief from this pandemic.

No one who was there could doubt that the struggles of the last 25 years have been worth it. We left New York City revitalized and recommitted for the next quarter century of striving to make our community more accessible and strong.

NEW RESOURCE MATERIALS FROM SM GAYS

England's SM Gays have released several new SM-related publications. The SM Gays Resource Book I (£5 overseas, £2 by mail order in the United Kingdom, or £1 at monthly meetings) contains, among other things, "The SM Guide to Safer Sex" and fact sheets on mummification and piercing. The SM Gays Resource Book II (£10 overseas, £3 in the U.K., and £2 at meetings) includes articles on fisting, shaving, assplay, and updated information on SM and law in the U.K., as well as full directories of groups, shops, and bars throughout the U.K. and Europe. (Make postal orders or Sterling checks drawn on a U.K. bank payable to "SM Gays" or to "SMG." Be sure to add an extra £1 for Sterling Eurocheques.)

For the free pictorial booklet, "Rough Sex/Safer Sex," covering many aspects of safer SM sex for gay and bisexual men, send a stamped, self-addressed 6"-x-6" envelope with your request to SM Gays, BM SM Gays, London WC1N 3XX. If you live outside the U.K., enclose an international postal order with your letter. You can request the SM Gays quarterly events leaflet from the same address. Look for more information about SM Gays and the SM Gays Benevolent Fund in future issues of European Drummer.

SECOND ANNUAL GALA FACTORY PARTY/AMSTERDAM LEATHER PRIDE WEEK

Friday, September 2, 1994 is the second annual Factory Party, organized by the Amsterdam Gay and Lesbian Association. The 1994 Factory Party will be held at the Wester Gaz factory in Amsterdam West. Last year's party, which was part of an entire gay and lesbian GALA Festival weekend, was a great success. A huge old factory building, a darkroom tent, and many outside cruising spots guarantee a fabulous night. Tickets are estimated to run between f25 and f40.

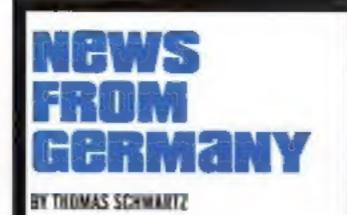

Bryan Derbeshire, owner of the Stable Master Hotel, is organizing a Leather Pride Week in Amsterdam at the end of September. This is the same period in which England celebrates SM Pride. On Saturday, September 24, 1994, four British SM organizations (Countdown on Spanner, SM Bls, SM Gays, and SM Dykes) celebrate "Dungeon in the Sky" with a Pride March, a day of workshops, an SM market and bar, demonstrations, and visuals.

BRUSSELS BIKE CLUB TAKES LEAD IN HELP TO PWAS

The Brussels-based MS Belgium motorsports club has started a group to help members with AIDS. "[The group] is not only to raise money," MSB general manager Daniel Dumont told Drummer, "but for helping people as well. Volunteers in MSB's help group take on tasks such as shopping, preparing the documents that are required by health services, or finding ground-floor apartments for those who need them." Says Dumont, "We want to have a more personal approach: You know and see [members] when they are healthy and when they are sick. We had fun with each other and can share bad moments as well."

BERLIN LEATHERMEN HOST AIDS HELP GROUP MEETING

The AG Leder der Berliner AIDS-Hilfe (the AIDS Help Group of the Berlin Leather Club) holds meetings every third Thursday at 21:00 hours at the New Action leather bar on the corner of Eisenacherstrasse and Kleiststrasse. Information: (49.30.88.33.017). Each year the club organizes a "Grief Seminar" for those dealing with the loss of a loved one. Berlin's Mann-o-Meter is also home to a "Grief Wall," similar to the "In Memoriam" Wall at the Cafe Gnosa in Hamburg. (Männeraktuell, June 1994).

BLACK FOREST CAMP

Once again leathermen go to their "Baiermühle" this August for the second "Black Forest Camp" near Stuttgart. The camp starts Friday, August 5th, early in the evening. Saturday is for walking and the traditional bike run, followed by brunch on Sunday. Participants may camp in their own tents or in a large tent together with the men of Leather Club Stuttgart, which seems the most attractive way to spend one's nights in the Black Forest. A few lumberjacks may even be around! Leather Club Stuttgart, Box 131216, 70069 Stuttgart.

GO EAST

A new leather scene is developing in eastern Germany after being hidden behind the Wall for 40 years. Although many of the new leather clubs are gatherings of only a few men with an interest in leather and uniforms, that's how a number of leather and motorcycle clubs started years ago in other areas. The first leather club in Chemnitz sounds all-American—the Chemnitz Eagle. In Erfurt, you will find the Thüringer Lederclub, and the LCD Dresden has been active in that town for a couple of months. These clubs deserve all the support we can give them. Meetings are mainly Fridays or Saturdays.

* Chemnitzer Eagle, CheLSI, Rösslerstrasse 9, 09120 Chemnitz

BONDAGE AND SM In Berlin

The just-released program for Berlin's Qualgeist Club contains highlights for the leather-and-uniform man. In the rather small quarters that house the club, there is a monthly uniform meeting, and almost every month features a bondage or SM evening or a weekend dedicated to rubber or goldenshower parties. Most parties include "action" and some require a dress code. If you are still fit enough after attending a special meeting at Qualgeist, other interesting bars in Berlin include: Knast (Fuggerstrasse 34), New Action (Kleiststrasse 35), and Spike Connection (Motzstrasse 25).

* Free program for Drummer readers from "Qualgeist," c/o Mann-O-Meter, Motzstrasse 5, 10777 Berlin. Include SASE with DM 1 for return postage.

ALSO CUMMING UP IN GERMANY

The main German events over the next months are: August 11 - 14, Leather Party by MSC Hamburg; August 26 - 28, Leather by the Rhine in Cologne by MS Panther Köln; September 16 - 18, Oktoberfest by MLC Munich.

GOOD OL' SEX WITH SOME KINK THROWN IN FOR GOOD MEASURE

What do you get when you combine attractive talent, technical expertise and horny scenes? If I've said it once, I've said it a hundred times—Hot House Entertainment!

There certainly isn't Nothin' Nice about their latest Plain Wrapped video release starring Bill Marlowe, The Hot House Mega Mystery Hole (what was his mother thinking?), former Drummer coverman Blue Blake, and professional bodybuilder Bull Stanton.

If lots of butt play makes your dick hard and your sphincter quiver, then Nothin' Nice is somethin' great to add to your erotic video collection.

There are two basic scenarios happenin' here. First, Marlowe and Hole (who wears a hood throughout the video) insert more and more rubber and Crisco up each other's hungry butts until they can't stand it anymore and find a vibrator to go along with everything else (I'm not talking about the kind of vibrator designed to be inserted in willing orifices either)

The second story line takes place in a garage and involves the unlikely combination of cars, dildos, grease monkeys and anoscopes. Spontaneity and a change of scenery have always been a fun sexual motivator for me, but I'll never understand why and where people store sex toys in their garage. I suppose pornography sometimes requires a leap of faith. Anyway, Blake and Stanton work each other over as well as the camera in some of the beefiest butt bashing I've seen. I was especially intrigued by the use of the anoscope. It must have reminded me of the many wonderful trips I've made to the proctologist

Hot House's Bullwhip Video line scores high marks for Backstage Pass. This series of unrelated vignettes really worked for me

The first scene is once agam set in a garage, what Ray Ed Harley does all by himself with his hog, however, brings a whole new meaning to the word screwdriver. I'm not one to like watching solo action, but my boner was throbbing so

Next was a lighthearted fantasy about a very bad and very big boy being punished tor playing with himself during class. Scott Baldwin starts off by begging for mercy from teacher Jack Tower, who is spanking Baldwin's behind. But after Tower's student is spanked and fucked, Baldwin ends up on top and purring about the possibility of getting an "A" from his teacher

The following two short stories get down to the basics; Zak Spears (sporting a new nipple piercing) fucks and sucks Claude Jourdan and Dallas Taylor plows Beau Saxon. Both scenes are hot, albeit vanilla

Finally, Damon Wolf and Shawn Justin explore bondage and punishment in a mild-mannered sort of way Don't get me wrong, however—this scenario is definitely fun and exciting maternal

A PICTURE IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS

Photographer Steven Baratz recently released a new line of greeting cards featuring black-&-white images of nude men and what he calls "nude landscapes." While the photosare not specifically sexual they are definitely erotic. The "nude landscapes" are photo montages combining the male figure with landscapes such as mountains or coastlines.

HATE SIZE QUEENS AND GUYS WITH LITTLE DICKS?

Gary Griffin created Added Dimensions Publishing in 1987 to market his first book, Penis Enlargement Methods, which is now in its 7th edition. Added Dimensions has published 10 other books including Testicles - The Ball Book. The Art of Auto Fellatio, The Vacuum Pumper's Handbook, and The Horsemen's Club. They also produce the newsletter Penis Power Quarterly

The latest editions of all these titles have been updated and expanded to include more true-life experiences as well as interesting trivia and technical tips on the book's main focus (vacuum pumping, penisenlargement, etc.). The overall effect is often erotic while informative

For more information write to Added Dimensions Publishing, 100 S. Sunrise Way, Suite 484, Palm Springs, CA 92262.

DEFINITELY DIFFERENT

To say that "Bad" Brad Braverman has an eye for homocrotic art would be an understatement. He has taken the skills as a photographer and applied them to videography

Hisaward winning video Fetish is very exciting and filled with beautiful, masculine men having great sex. However, if you think this video is going to explore different fetishes as the title implies, you may be disappointed. Fetish stars Dolph Knight, Rod Abbott, Sean Hunter, Chad Knight, Nick Romano, Jason Ross, Kevin Sharpe and Les Stine

The four stones in Fetish melude a solo scene with Dolph Knight dancing around and jerking his pretty cock. Then there is the motorcycle scene and the leatherish thing happening. The one story that is more fetish-oriented than the others features one guy blindfolded and all tied up with no place to go. His dominant costar ends up fucking him with a night stick while he smokes digarettes

Disconnected, also an award winner, borders on the westd and I loved it There are several bizarre stories loosely connected by one central character. The stars include Mark Steel, Rob Cryston, Wes Daniels, Shane Gear, Brian Harris, Bill Marlowe, Aiden Shaw and Randy White

It all starts off with our main guy getting a mysterious phone call in the dead of night which wakes him up He can't get back to sleep and decides to smoke a cigarette (Brad obviously has a thing for smoking imagery) In the meantime the cene edits and missing frames make the actual happenings difficult to follow. I had to continually ask myself who was spying on whom through the windows, and whether or not the vignettes were supposed to be flashbacks to real events or druginduced fantasies or what

The underwater action is fun and creative with one guy getting pulled in to a pool, wrestled out of his clothes, and fucked (how does one stay lubed in a pool²). The overall effect of lighting and floating was incredible. I must say I was disappointed that neither merman came underwater.

Next there is a Gothic scene with lots of candelabras all ablaze and our main guy stuck in the corner watching the dangerous and arousing sex that is going on in the middle of the room The twist is that the central figure in this story, Aiden Shaw, is a vampire. Of course Shaw uses his big uncut cock to fuck the living shit out of his victim. Part way through the anal probing, Shaw bites his victim and continues to fuck him even though he is now lifeless. At this point our main man comes out of his corner and sucks the vampire's cock clean

The other scenario worth mentioning involves the voyeurism of four turnof-the-century-style sailors One of the four gets the most attention which includes the insertion of a beer bottle up his willing ass

Braverman's latest and ali vampires incked like Aiden Shaw from lisconnocted, l'd say se you this hest effort in homogratic videography is Hush, a related approach to his photographic series Auto Erotic Suicide. This sexy and controversial video "is intended to evoke a viewer's innermost fears and desires," Braverman explains, adding "Hush explores the desire to destroy the self through sex."

This sexual self-destruction involves a little bit of oxygen deprivation, a whole bunch of sex with a pistol, and some very hot fuck scenes which are done without the use of any rubbers (see my commentary about unsafe sex and choices in issue 176)

Every one of these videos was artistically, musically, technically and erotically some of the best work I've seen. To order any of these videos or to inquire about the photo series, write Bradley J. Braverman Studio, 7985 Santa Monica Boulevard, Suite 109-246, West Hollywood, CA 90046.

SIGHS OF THE THRES: PYCFILE OF LAUCER VALSETIE

By Marcus Hernandez

In these current times of ongoing social interaction, the colorful pastiche of the leather/SM community is still far ahead of other groups when it comes to inclusion. Even before men became aware of the need to attempt to be all things to all people within our tribe, women made extra efforts at inclusion by establishing wheel-chair access, child care, and healthy environmental scenes (no smoking) for their own gatherings and even havens for transgender people.

Eventually, this open display of getting support for whatever cause was being espoused was not lost on men. It's safe to say that inclusion, defined as "welcoming peoples of all genders, feishes, and inclinations" and more importantly these days, the need for accepting the input of deaf men and women has become the important — and the right — thing to do

At almost any given function these days, it is not unusual to see a skilled person or two translating the onstage dialogue with sign language

With the advent of deaf leather men and women getting into the mainstream of leather/SM, signing in many major urban settings became as ordinary as "no smoking" signs. One major leather bar owner in San Francisco was so acutely aware of this need back in the late 1970s, he installed a sound system in his bar that enabled deaf customers to at least feel the vibrations, the rhythms, and the nuances of the music — all for the enjoyment of his deaf customers.

While a lot of people are not completely aware of the social mores of their deaf brothers and sisters, many are aware that applause for deaf speakers, contestants or entertainers is given by waving one's hands and fingers rather than clapping or whistling. Progress is slow, but on the rise

And while many suddenly become aware of their faux pas in not remembering, it is getting better. At the 1994 International Mr. Leather contest in Chicago this past May, there were no deaf contestants, but there was a big presence of deaf men and women in the audience. It was very

gratifying to see that IML producer, Back Door Productions, practiced inclusion and provided empowerment by making sure deaf people knew what was happening onstage at the contest itself and at various other activities of the weekend

One former International Mr. Leather who was aware of the situation, postulated that he would like to raise money to produce a safe/sane/consensual sex video for the deaf. The impositions of his title with numerous appearances around the country and other distractions left the project in limbo. Perhaps another individual, titled or not, might want to pursue this admirable concept.

Which brings me to this Drummer issue's profile of an unheralded leather person who has been in the forefront of inclusion for the deaf. While there are many, many qualified men and women, both gay and straight, who loyally sign at events, one of the most well-known, respected and enduring people who derives much pleasure doing it is a Washington, DC leatherman who just happens to be one of the best in the business. His name is Lauger Valentin. And in case you're wondering, it's pronounced "Logger Valenteen," a Spanish surname derived from his Puerto Rican heritage. An easy-going but dedicated and aware individual, Lauger is very likeable, very skilled, and charismatic deal with deaf people. Anyone who tries to interact with a deaf person can tell you how frustrating it can be for you, the deaf person, and anyone else who has to constantly supply conversationalists with scratch pads and pencils so one can get their "message" across.

Lauger Valentin chose to study the most predominant system currently in place, the American Sign Language system. In his role as a member of the Centaur Motorcycle Club, and a member of the Mr. Mid-Atlantic Leather Contest Committee, Lauger soon realized that there were plenty of hot, deaf leathermen around the Mid-Atlantic region who wanted to compete. Almost 9 years later you can credit the Centaur MC, and especially Lauger Valentin, for what is now considered de rigueur providing qualified interpreters for both major and minor leather events.

Lauger learned his craft at Gallaudet University in Washington because of his job. And he'll be the first one to say that no one interpreter is considered perfect. The Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf is a nationwide accrediting agency. The process includes a written test which, if passed, entitles the applicants to interpret a video of signing. Failing that video test is no big obstacle; it can be repeated as often as necessary and, afterward, a certified judge quizzes the applicants. His judgement of performance determines certification.

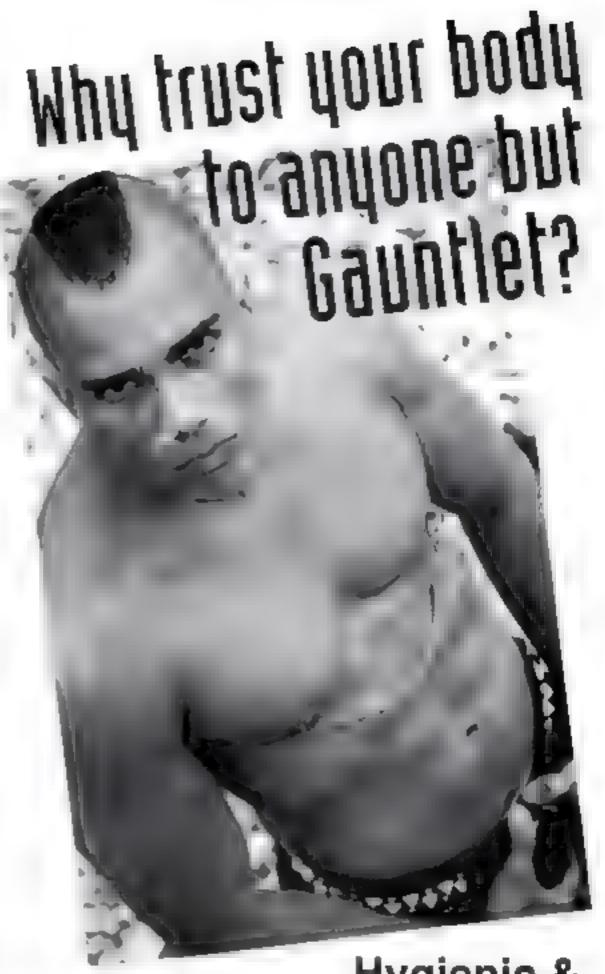

Like any other endeavor, signing competency is a judgement call from those who rely on it for communication as well as those who grant accreditation. There are good ones and not so good ones, but overall, fees ranging from $50 to $75 per hour for services are charged

In exchange for volunteering, air, train or bus fare seems to be justified, plus, sometimes, accommodations and/or meals. Those who earn their living interpreting in courtrooms and other areas are not so liberal with their time or skills. But that may soon change

As deaf gays and lesbians interact with the mainstream of their community, the need for signing appears to be on the increase. At this deadline. in San Francisco's burgeoning leather/SM deaf scene, dialogue began in mid-July concerning the establishment of the Communications Access Network, an agency that is up and running and established to find qualified interpreters for leather events, maintaining guidelines for producers and interpreters,

A core-team roster of signers is being formulated and fundraising plans are in progress is establishing interpreter qualifications for events. The group hopes that chapters will be born in other cities.

As for Lauger Valentin, he can be seen on many of the IML video tapes practicing his craft. But aside from leather events, he has also dealt with mainstream activities that utilize his skills. He has signed for the prestigious Horatio Alger Society awards show, he has met both former Joint Chief of Staff Cohn Powell and poet Maya Angelou, and he has pushed his skills to the strenuous task of auctioning at charity events.

Lauger's most fulfilling challenge as an interpreter was when he was called upon in an emergency to interpret for a deaf woman who was in labor with a Cesarean birth — an interlude that lasted almost 16 hours! While there was no constant dialogue between the doctor and the patient, the birth of the child after that stint was, in Lauger's mind, a rewarding experience where he felt extremely proud of his talent. His lover of 10 years has never complained about Lauger's dedication to volunteering. His three daughters, who live in New York, are aware of his activities and couldn't be prouder

Signing is an exhausting pursuit You'll usually see at least two persons interpreting; a half-hour stint takes a lot out of you, so producers should be aware of that situation when planning events.

Wherever you may live with a deaf community, it should be clear that inclusion is necessary. Singling out Lauger Valentin for this profile will, I hope, instill a sensitivity in your area to the needs of your deaf brothers and sisters. The unique skill of interpreting for the deaf, especially in the leather/SM community, can serve as a catalyst once again for the rest of our gay/lesbian/bisexual/transgendered brothers and sisters. There is no justification for exclusion. Thank you, Lauger Peace

The Experience of Pain

BY JACK RINELLA

Society tolerates our leather, our shaved heads and full beards, even our bars and our promiscuity. What they don't tolerate, what elicits their strongest denunciations, is our attraction to and use of pain. The fastest way, for instance, to get video porn censored is for it to include some act of sadism Even "vanilla" gays condemn and ostracize us because of it

Whipping, cutting, paddling, bruising, and the like bring forth ridicule, rapid ire, and condemnation. Our detractors love to focus on the pain we inflict, never understanding its meaning or effect. Most of us probably don't understand it either. Though our fiction and our fantasies are filled with torture and cruelty, we can't bring ourselves to participate in scenes of torture, except perhaps on the safe side of a video screen or magazine page. We shy away from pain in real life

The masochists in our midst, of course, are exceptions. They have found some mysterious technique to transform pain into pleasure. For them, the sadist inflicts joy, even bliss, certainly a pleasant reward, a desired release

Matt is desperately searching for a master. He's called me a few times, based on having seen my ad in TC7. I picture him as a handsome, very smooth, five-foot-seven man with gumption. His fantasy life is well-developed, but mostly unlived. He wants to be used, to be turned into a "complete hole" with no purpose except to give the sadist who rules him full control, including the infliction of any kind of possible pain

"Would you mutilate my cock so as to make it unusable?" he asks. Heavy negotiating is going on and we haven't even met. I have no answer for him, though it's not impossible to see it happen in my mind's eye. I do think of keeping my slave's testicles on the shelf in a jar of formaldehyde, but such thoughts are mere fantasy with no plans for fulfillment door open. His question is premature. After all, mutilation, if it were to occur, would only come after my ownership is full and complete, his trust of me deep and permanent. So few slave applicants ever get past the phone stage that I won't commit myself to anything until after we've met.

Matt called again last Sunday afternoon. The distance between us (Chicago to New York) is too far to make meeting easy, but not so far that he can't call to check me out, see how I react to his mood swings, estimate whether I am the master who's man enough to give him what he needs. He knows, as do I, that his passion is too strong to ignore forever. There will come a day when he will have to submit, forsaking everything to gain his servitude, his pain, his release

My conversations with him are deep, stirring primal feelings, raising questions that are dark and ominous It's man-stuff, pure leather man-stuff, not for the common crowd, perhaps not even for some of the Drummer crowd

What is the pain he seeks? How does he get there? What does it portend, bring, answer?

Pain of the kind inflicted in SM brings catharsis, bonding, pleasure, and the experience of alternate states. Those, I am sure, are reasons enough. Additionally, pain can also have the effect of causing a sense of transition, as in the coming-of-age rituals of many.

in America, there are few recognized elders, no rites of transition, no indoctrinations, no initiations. Our scientific American world is sterile, without tradition, meaning or purpose. And so, alone and lonely, Matt seeks a master to give him comfort in the form of pain and humiliation. He seeks someone to fill his hole

He knows he is a hole, needs to find some way to make his hole-ness real, telt, meaningful. He searches the path we call leather on a quest for fulfillment and freedom. Slavery, he thinks, will set him free from the bondage of estrangement, loneliness and isolation.

The realization of his quest has four steps: trust, commitment, experience, release.

There is no way that any of his fantasy will come true until we trust each other. I'm not going to take a man I don't trust and likewise no slave should submit to someone he doesn't trust. We each have to earn that trust, exploring each other's honesty, faithfulness, stability, desire.

Fake his testicles? I doubt it. Well before such an act is possible, he first has to surrender his will, his self-control, his desire. I am not about to become a slave to his passion, a tool he can use to act out whatever fantasy he wishes. No, my fantasy is to master, to empty my slave of every desire except the will to do my desire. I will have to trust that he'll obey—he, that there is safety in every act of obedience.

The more we trust, the more we can commit ourselves to each other. Commitment demands understanding, that we know to what we are assenting, that we define our terms closely, knowing the limits, the extent of power. We have to get past the semantics of differing words, thinking we hear each other when we don't. My definition of surrender has to be his, his understanding of slavery, of pain, of submission, the same as mine

Oh, there doesn't always have to be that intensity, that depth. Face it, most scenes are short and safe. Most encounters are merely quick jerk-off oneacts. We flee each other in the morn66 The master needs to know where to touch, where to prod, where to rip and tear. His pain is a gift and he knows, because he is master, how and when to give the gift. He knows he has to watch the slave's need increase, the desire grow until his slave thirsts for the lash, begs for the clamps, waits at night for his master to make him wince, moan, scream, perhaps cry.

ing, if we even bother to spend the night together in the first place. But the release Matt seeks will not come in a single scene, never with a stranger After the trust, which takes time, there needs to be the commitment. Only then can there be the real pain.

Only then will master and slave, sadist and masochist, have entered into a relationship where unity is attainable. Pain without bonding is stubbing your toe or hitting your funny bone. It's slipping on ice and breaking a leg, a cancer in one's liver or lungs. What is sought in SM is communication, understanding. The master needs to know where to touch, where to prod, where to rip and tear. His pain is a gift and he knows, because he is master, how and when to give the gift. He knows he has to watch the slave's need increase, the desire grow until his slave thirsts for the lash, begs for the clamps, waits at night for his master to make him wince, moan, scream, perhaps cry.

He wants to be taken, overwhelmed, made to explode. Then he will know, by his master's sadism, that there is comfort, purpose, position. He is no longer alone, unused. When the ordeal is over, Matt will have found release, refreshment, affirmation. I wrote in the beginning of this column that we don't understand pain I don't understand it well enough to put all of it into words. But I have tasted the release and know it can happen. I have been beaten by one I trust so that I became his, and have felt the transformation

My 47th birthday happened to be World Wide AIDS Awareness Day and so it was a day of mixed feelings, holding both pleasure at the thought of my birthday and sadness at the remembrance of the loss that AIDS has brought to out lives

Lynn invited me to celebrate the day with dinner followed by play at his home. After dinner he put 47 clothespins on my body. They went on easily and were hardly felt until he took them off.

Their effect, though, as he slowly removed them one by one, was to move something inside me, to break up a logiam of emotion, of sadness, of loss. As they came off, I cried for my friends who had died, for the ones I love who are infected with HIV

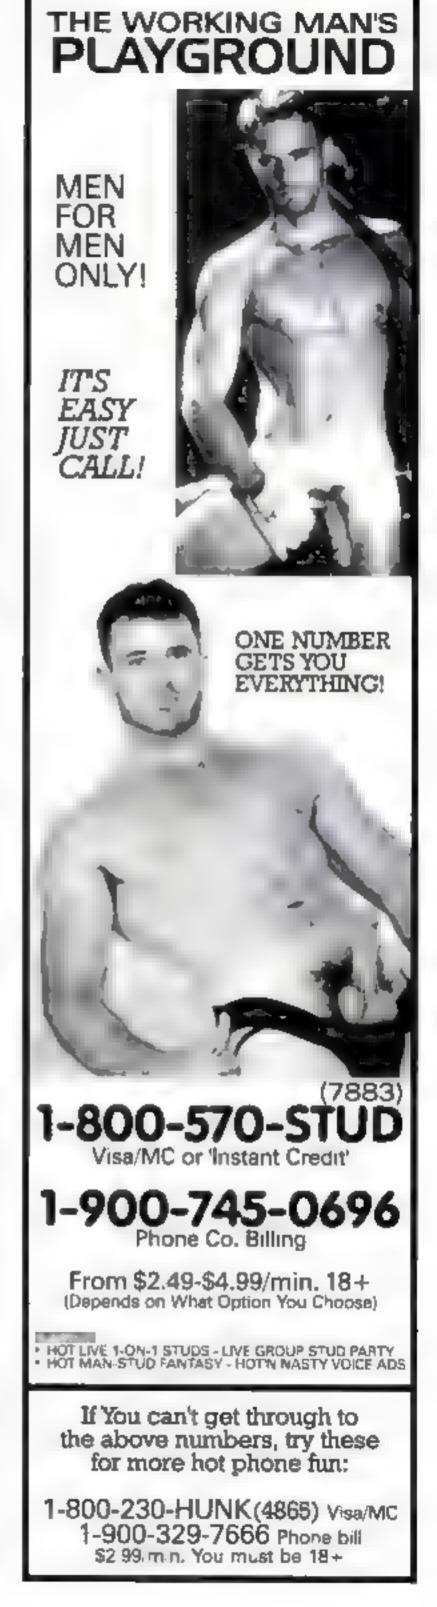

I let the pain rush through me, cleanse me, purge me, empty me. I let the kinks, the facades, the hurts flow and get swept away by the pain. I was empty when he was done and in that "emptiness" I was easily filled with his warmth, his love, the goodness of the

How can a master bring pain to his obedient and loving slave? He can do it because he recognizes his control of his slave, his slave-given right to take pleasure as he sees fit. Masters also know what they bring with their whips, paddles, clamps, and needles.

Crucial to anyone's ability to inflict pain is the understanding of what that pain means, why it is inflicted, and the effect that it creates in the slave's body It is pain for the sake of pleasure, of moving emotional and psychological blocks in order to experience release and the freedom of catharsis. The experience fulfills deep and mysterious longings for knowledge of self, of the universe. Unbelievable? Then you have yet to experience it. For in SM, the experience and only the experience, is the real teacher

Time and time again, pain brings pleasure, I look forward to giving Matt all the pain he needs, all the pleasure he desires. The fortunate part of the equation is that, in doing so, my needs and my pleasures will be met as well.

In SM the satisfaction is mutual, a happy turn of events to be sure.

A Celebration of Pain

SandMutopia Travel: Offering Unique Travel Opportunities to a Unique Clientele

andMutopia Travel is honored to be able to offer one of the most unique travel experiences available anywhere. For nearly seven centuries, every other year in late summer, a very private event occurs at a remote monastery in Japan. There is no exact translation for the Japanese name of this event. The closest we can come is "The Austere and Magnificent Festival for the Celebration of Pain" This event is definitely participatory and not just a performance, though performance art could be a valid description of it. It is not quite a religious celebration, though all who attend will certainly affirm that it is a spiritual experience. It could easily be described as an orgy, but it is very much more than that

Only men may attend, participate, or come anywhere near the monastery, and only those men who have a specific invitation from the members of the host monastery. Invitations are very difficult to get. Though invitations began to go to Asian men outside of Japan nearly 300 years ago, it is only within the past 40 years that a very few non-Asians have been among those so privileged.

Fortunately, for the past three festivals certain residents of SandMutopia have been invited and have attended. As a result of their fine performances the organizers decided to be a little more open in allowing access to the unique SandMutopia community.

Last year SandMutopia Travel was allowed to recruit five new potential participants, each of whom was, in turn, interviewed most rigorously by a delegation from the hosts, and all were accepted for attendance. For next year's festival we are able to increase the number to 11, which is fortunate because four of the previous five plan to attend, and have priority. (The fifth would also be attending if his health permitted.)

Last year's participants were awed by the experience. And we can guarantee that those of you selected to attend next year will be as well.

The group will assemble in San Francisco and then fly to Kyoto where we have scheduled a few days of relaxation interspersed with visits to selected Japanese temples and gardens, programs on both Buddhist and Shinto worship, and a lecture and concert of Taiko drumming. Then you transfer to the ancient temple and garden complex that is the site of the festival.

The festival itself lasts for 25 hours, preceded by several days of preparation, and followed by several days of unwinding from the extreme emotional and spiritual high. Participants fall into three categories: sufferers, worshipers, and facilitators. The sufferers spend the 25 hours in extreme bondage, being subjected to painfully erotic tortures designed primarily to keep them screaming, moaning, sobbing, and making other appropriate noises of pain. The worshipers spend the 25 hours in comfortable but restrictive bondage, sometimes blindfolded, sometimes not, as they

im's muscles screamed from hours in tight bondage, and from the numerous welts and bruises where the bamboo rods had struck again and again. But now he lay spread-eagled in the afternoon sun, his wrists and ankles tied to vertical posts at the corners of the frame and his torso supported by a grid work of bamboo rods.

Now fingers removed the blindfold and Kim blinked at the brightness of the sun. Po Ling wiped the sweat from Kim's brow and allowed his eyes to adjust. Then he held up a small clamp for his victim to see. It was made of bamboo and rawhide and was not unlike a clothespin, except that it had teeth that bit deeply into the skin when attached. Po Ling pulled up his victim's right nipple and set the clamp securely on the sensitive bit of Kim's flesh

Kim groanedas the clamp closed on his skin, and he shuddered in anticipation as Po Ling attached a stout cord to the clamp and ran it up over the framework above the spread-eagled victim. He attached a large rock to the end of the cord and let it dangle there. Kim raised his shoulder slightly and the tock fell an equal distance, tugging at the clamped nipple.

Kim flinched and gasped as a second clamp bit into his other nipple. Po Ling set rows of clamps from his victim's armpits to his groin. The clamps bit into Kim's skin and the rocks tugged painfully upward. Kim reveled in the pain, groaning and undulating as he tried unsuccessfully to relieve the pressure of the pulling rocks.

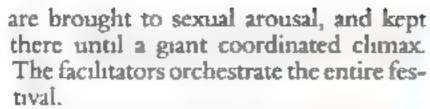

Kim screamed as his termenter added more clamps along his arms, the insides of his thighs, and finally, to his genitals. Po Ling inserted one large clamp with a prong into a piercing where a Prince Albert should be, three others fanned out against his scrotum, biting into the skin Po Ling tugged at the rocks, equalizing pressure on the various clamps. Then he quickly united the bamboo grid work from the uprights and let it fall away from beneath Kim's body. He was supported only by the clamps attached to the rocks.

Kun's cock throbbed as the clamps tugged painfully at all parts of him, and he screamed even more loudly as his termenter began to swing his body, causing the rows of clamps to alternately pull sharply and then release pressure. His vocalizations diminished into sobs as the

He hung mononless and gasped as Po Ling severed the cord attached to one clamp, then another and another. As each clamp was released, Kim's body was supported by fewer attachment points until his weight exceeded that of the rocks. He slipped lower until he was resting on his back on the ground

New waves of pain racked him as his tormentor strummed the remaining cords in cadence with the beating drums, tugging at the clamps and ripping them free until only his nipples and genitals were left attached Kim's cock throbbed as Po Ling's ministrations generated scream after scream. Finally all clamps were released and Kim's body was massaged with an astringent cream that made his skin burn.

And "orchestrate" is definitely the appropriate word. The director conducts his facilitator minions like the sections of a symphony orchestra.

Various segments of the 200-plus sufferers who participate are brought to crescendos of screams and moans at different times. Some are brought down by soothing erotic stimulation to rest before being tortured to new heights of agony and ecstasy

Similarly, the worshipers are sucked, stroked and massaged to heights of ecstasy, only to be brought down slowly to just gentle pleasure before again crescendoing. The moans, gasps, cries and sobs of the worshipers are a part of the festival. And, while their main purpose is to experience and enjoy the sounds and sights of pain surrounding them, pain techniques, when appropriate, are used with the worshipers as well.

The whole celebration begins at midnight and slowly builds and swells to a magnificent crescendo timed to greet the rising sun. Through the long day the mood is lower-key, the relatively relaxed periods longer and more frequent. But for no one does the stimulation ever stop, not is there ever a period without many cries of pain and anguish being offered up. At sundown the tempo again builds to a mighty climax, in all senses of the word, at midnight.

The four days preceding the festival are spent in preparation. Both sufferers and worshipers work with the facilitator assigned to them. They experiment with techniques until each facilitator knows his subject's reactions intimately — knows what activity is going to make a sufferer moan, what is going to make him sob, and what is going to make him shriek. Similarly the facilitator for a worshiper must know how to make him stay hard at all times, how to judge when an ejaculation is coming, and how to prevent it without losing arousal. He must learn the individual techniques that will generate various levels of sensual arousal in his subject.

The beautiful temple gardens are the prime site for the festival, though some participants are in, or on the sides of, the various structures surrounding the garden. Flowers are in full bloom and their perfume mixes with the fresh scent of pines from the surrounding forests and the strong aroma of male sweat produced by so many bodies suffering in agony and ecstasy.

As much as possible all bindings and implements of torment and arousal are natural. Cotton and hemp ropes and leather straps bind men to wooden posts and racks, to rocks and trees, to bamboo frames. Thighs and asses

he moans, screams, cries, wails, and chants had been building for hours. On the hill at the edge of the garden the Taiko drummers had begun to beat the big drums. Torches illuminated the pair of drummers, their lithe bodies now stripped of their fundoshis, sweat streaked muscles glistening in the torch light. Dragon's cock jumped at the sight and he pulled off his own loin covering, letting his large cock rise up like a scimitar from his tattooed groin

He again admired the hard muscular body of Kuhn, the Furasian man he was assigned to torment, and his cock jumped again. For hours the tanned sleek body had writhed in bondage, but now he would begin something special. He reoriented the victim, lowering the legs tied to a bamboo spreader rod, and raised the torso wrapped in a rope body harness so that he hung nearly vertically. He tied off the foot rod and reattached the large rock that had previously been dangling from the bound scrotum. Then he took up his bamboo rod and began to lightly tap at the victim's torso, matching the beat of the Taiko drummer.

Kuhn looked at him and they peered deep into each other's eyes, as the victim nodded and mouthed the word "yes!" Slowly Dragon increased the intensity of the blows, each one incrementally harder than the one preceding it. He covered the muscular thighs, the calves, the pees, the abdomen, the arms, and even, occasionally, the genitals in his beating. The victim began to moan, ever more loudly, as the beating went on and on

Now Dragon was putting full force into his blows, each leaving livid welts on his victim's body, and the victim's moans had changed to screams of pain, continuously wailing like a siren. Dragon was screaming himself in exhibitation at the agony he was generating, and all around them others were screaming with similar intensity.

Then suddenly, on the ridge, the Taiko drummers were silhouetted against a pinkish orange ball of the rising sun. The swell of screams rose an octave in intensity. Dragon changed the angle of his rod and drove one last blow, with maximum force, into his victim's crotch, smashing Kuhn's bound testicles and giving an ear-splitting scream of samural satisfaction. Kuhn also screamed, louder than he had yet, and he bounced as much as his bondage would allow, his body shuddering and shaking.

Dragon dropped the rod, and along with the rest of the festival, began tender caressing motions, wiping down the pain-racked, sweat-streaked body with damp towels and soothing lotions. There would now be a period of calm before another

he large gong in the temple tower had just sounded the midnight bell. Paul could sense the atmosphere change.

The busy bustling of hundreds of men getting into position, the sounds of knots being field, of wood frames settling under the new weight of male bone and muscle, came to an end. After the fintinnabulation of the gong faded, the sounds became more subtle and soft, such as rope moving over skin, and lots of heavy breathing. Somewhere off to the left the first moan sounded.

In the darkness ahead the beat of a small drum began and he could hear the sound of a bamboo rod striking flesh in conjunction with the drum. A torch flared and he saw the victim, a lean muscular Japanese youth with his crotch bent over a T-shaped bamboo frame, his feet and ankles tied out in four radiating points, leaving his ass uppermost. Another Japanese youth wearing only a yellow fundoshi beat on the upturned ass, matching the rhythm of the drum. The heating was not hard, yet, and the boy began to moan

in a continuous call of pleasure and pain

Paul closed his eyes and put his head back, enjoying the sounds of the beatings and moans around him. He also enjoyed the feeling of the leather thongs binding him, along with five others, to a post. His arms were behind him, loosely but securely bound, so his fingers could feel and interlock with 50 others, like a writhing mass of tentacles. His body rested on the prong that impaled his ass, filling it and feeling good. His shoulders were appressed tight to the men on either side of him and his legs were drawn up and spread so that his knees and thighs also were tied tightly to the men on either side.

On his right was Sid, a huge hairy bear of a man, and Paul enjoyed the feel of the hairy skin against his. To his left was Hiro, a long-time member of the festival team and one of the committee that had interviewed him and Sid. Hiro was at least 65, but his body was as lean and muscular as that of the youth getting his ass beaten.

Paul returned his attention to that flogging just as a soft finger began to trace a pattern on his chest, rippling his own ample supply of chest hair. He felt Sid's body react and he pushed his head against Sid's furry face. They turned and kissed as a facilitator began to gently stroke their cocks.

In the distance a man screamed in pain and torches illuminated his body, hanging by his ankles and bouncing from a limber pine bough as more and more rocks were added to the fiber basket hanging from his well-stretched scrotum.

and pecs and balls are beaten with bamboo rods of various diameters. Splinters of bamboo pierce flesh and smoldering splinters of the same material heat, and sometimes burn, tender bits of flesh. Rocks hang from testicles and body piercings. Intricate constructs of bamboo and leather compress testicles, or pinch nipples, tongues and cock heads. Feathers tickle and caress, bits of pumice stone abrade, cucumbers and other vegetables fill body orifices.

Illumination also is only natural: sunlight during the day, carefully placed torches at night. And the torches are moved by the facilitators to highlight particularly beautiful bodies straining in agony, the flickering firelight making their sweat-drenched skin ripple as muscles writhe.

Following the midnight crescendo all participants are unbound and fall into an orgy until dawn. This is not a sexual orgy. There is no fucking and few orgasms. By that hour hardly any of the participants can tolerate having their cocks touched. Even the facilitators are tender. They have been playing with themselves, or each other, most of the day, keeping themselves in as nearly a continuously aroused state as those they serviced. And most of the facilitators also came at the final climax. But there is still an orgy of over 700 men going on, including all shapes and sizes, all ages and, recently, diverse nationalities. All caressing each other—kissing, licking, touching, communicating—continuing to share the festival of pain and pleasure they have just experienced.

After sunrise, sleep and food are the main objectives. This is followed by two more days of soothing baths, lotions, massages, and general unwinding before beginning the journey home. Please note, honeyed tea and other natural stimulants are administered by the facilitators to each participant throughout the festival, whenever needed to maintain health and stamina.

Facilitators are all chosen and trained by the organizers. SandMutopia Travel can offer only a limited number of positions as sufferer and worshiper. Those applying for this experience must undergo a rigorous acceptance process. Only those who have received approval from the special selection committee, composed primarily of men who have already participated in the festival, will receive this invitation. If you have received this document, you have cleared the first hurdle without even trying. If you choose to apply, fill out the enclosed questionnaire and send it along with a check for your deposit. Available spaces will be filled in the order in which applications are received, and a waiting list will be maintained in the event of cancellations

Applications must be received within the next 60 days. Shortly after that time a small delegation from the monastery will be visiting SandMutopia and conducting interviews with each applicant. (While these interviews are quite rigorous, so is the selection process you have already, unknowingly, undergone. None of our recommended participants was rejected by the monastery team for last year's festival.) The interview team must approve each applicant before an invitation can be issued.

You have been selected to receive this announcement because we are aware of your appreciation of pain, be it the feeling of it in your own mind and body, or the sights and sounds of it consuming the mind and body of another male. Do not let yourself miss this opportunity to participate in an experience that is beyond words.

As the finest Beluga is to black-dyed lumpfish roe; as a Jay Marston flogger is to a Pakistani newspaper whip; as a bottle of vintage Petrus is to a bottle of Thunderbird; as a Larry Hunt hood is to a canvas mail bag; as a loaf of Cibatta is to Wonder Bread; as a Fetters sleep sac is to an army surplus mummy bag; as a Godiva chocolate is to a carob-covered peanut; as a Lee Willis studded belt is to something made by a Boy Scout; thus is this Celebration of Pain to any other SM event you have ever attended ... even ... including ... Inferno!

aul was close to sensory overload. His muscles screamed from the hours of bondage. His skin was abraded from the bindings and from rubbing against Sid's coarse furry pelt. His throat was hoarse from moaning and screaming, and his cock was hard and throbbing having been kept on the point of arousal for hours on end. Most of all he was overwhelmed by the panorama of beautiful men suffering all around him. Their writhing bodies and the sounds of their moans were almost more than he could endure.

On the hill, the teams of wiry muscular Taiko drummers that had been playing in relay for nearly 24 hours were building to new beights, and a new dimension was added as the team not currently playing took up stout leather whips and began flogging the backs of the drummers

Off to his left Kim again lay spread-eagled on the bamboo grid, his entire body red from hours of beating, clamps, astringents, and abrasives. Po Ling took a willow branch with a tuft of tiny leaves and branchlets and held it to the fire until it began to smolder, then he held it above Kim's spread-eagled body and shook it gently, causing tiny embers to rain lightly on the raw skin. Kim screamed in higher volume than yet before, and Po Ling shook the branch again.

Kuhn again hung by his ankles, his head near the ground, his genitals large and full, falling over his taunt abdomen. Dragon used chopsticks to select a small glowing ember from the fire and held it to Kuhn's nipple, not yet touching the flesh. Kuhn withed as his tormentor moved the glowing ember around his beaten torso, but the Eurasian's cock was rigid despite the torment. Dragon had been working on it, as well as on his own.

On the hill the Taiko drummers reached a new frenzy, their cocks vibrating in time with their drums and whips. Paul screeched in exhibitation as a gentle, wet mouth closed over his tender cock head and began to lick Kim's screams reached a new crescendo as Po Ling took his genitals in one hand and began to slap them resolutely back and torth with the other And Dragon stroked Kuhn's cock with one hand as he slowly moved the glowing ember closer and closer to the tender cock head with the other

The timing was precise. The ember touched Kuhn's cock head and he screamed in agony just as his cum spurted forth and extinguished the burning ember. Dragon came copiously only seconds later. Paul's seed spurted at the same time as most of the men in the garden came, groaning loudly. On the hill the drummers shot with their final drumbeats, then fell in exhaustion.

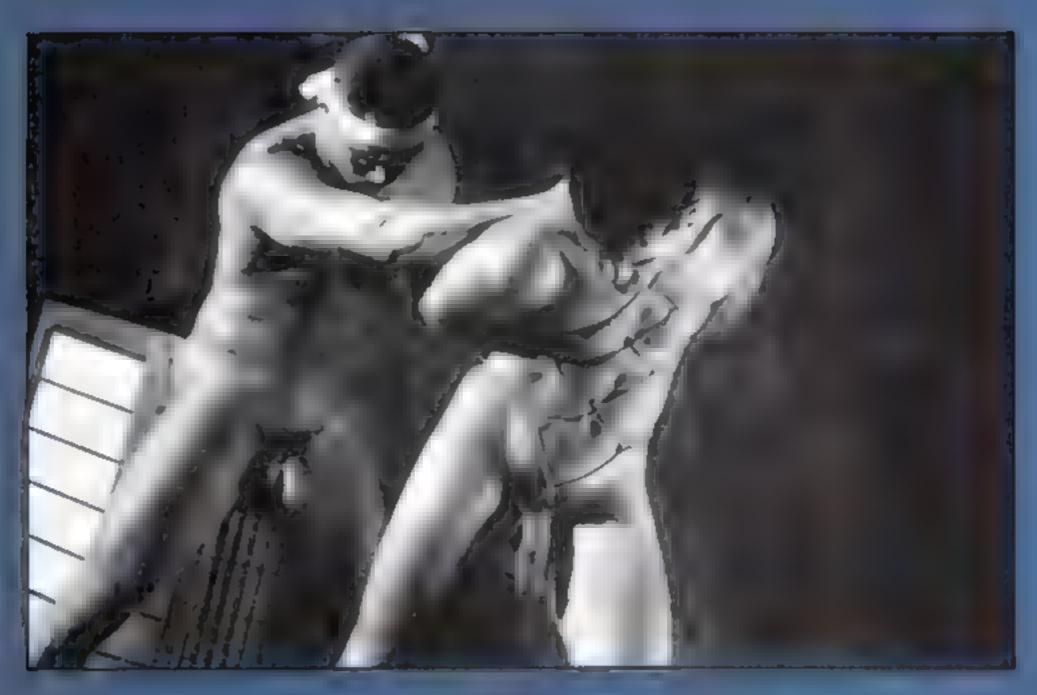

Hands quickly untied bindings, and Kuhn and Dragon writhed together on the ground, licking and gnawing at each other's bodies. Elsewhere, Paul, Sid, Kim, Po Ling, and all of the others were doing the same, as silence of the drums filled the air around them

Las Vegas Drummer Wins in Southwest Regional Leather Contest

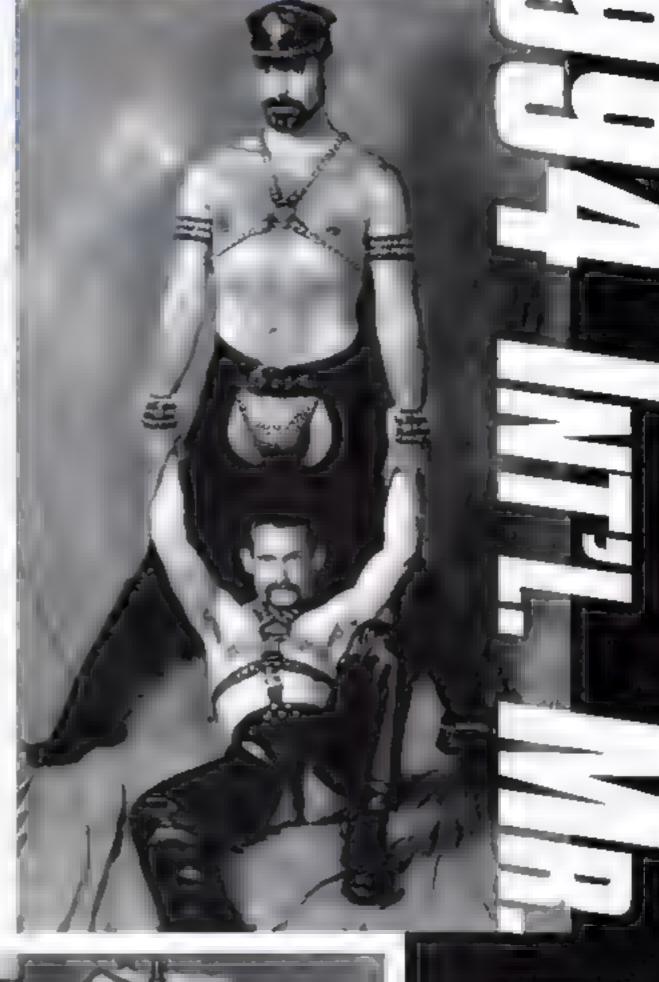

The leather community of Las Vegas was represented again this year in Phoenix at the 1994 Southwest Regional Mr. Drummer Contest. The Southwest Region consists of Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico

In January of this year the first local contest of Las Vegas was held at The Backstreet. When the dust cleared, coming out victorious were Bob Michaels, Mr. Las Vegas Drummer '94 and, Chris Reynolds, Drummerboy '94

The Buffalo, a leather/levi bar, and The Backstreet, a country western bar, both in Las Vegas, sponsored both winners to the Southwest Regional Contest which is sponsored by J&S Productions and was held at the Burn Steer in Phoenix on May 6 - 8, 1994

Las Vegas was well-represented by Bob and Chris, with Bob taking first place and bringing home the title of Mr Southwest Drummer '94-'95 to Las Vegas. Chris was presented, by Graylin Thornton, Mr. International Drummer '93-'94, the Southwest Drummerboy title for all of his hard work and dedication. Bob and Chris now go on to the International Mr. Drummer Finals in San Francisco in September. Bob and Chris, who are already active in the local and regional communities, are ready and willing to give a hand in any local or regional charitable event. Organizations or groups interested can contact them through The Buffalo at (702) 733-8355

On February 26, 1994, Mr. Mid-Atlantic Drummer '93, David Schauer, and Drummerboy '93, Danny Clougherty, hosted the Great Baltimore Flea Market at the Baltimore Eagle. Vendors rented booth space to raise money for their club, organization or charity Mr Mid-Atlantic Drummer and Drummerboy ran the concession stand with the help of titleholders from the area, along with volunteers from local clubs. Helping were Kevin Harvey, Mr. Marvland Leather '94; Ken Huff, Mr. B H T. '93, and Darryl Flick, Mr. Southeast Leather '93

David and Danny, along with Mid. Atlantic Drummer Coordinator. Allen Grim, wish to thank the staff and management of the Baltimore Eagle for their support in making this a great success. It looks like this may become an annual event in Baltimore.

10 minutes. He was excited, but there wasn't enough time to lock his door and jack off. Still, he couldn't keep the forbidden fantasies from surfacing. In Elitott's imagination, the sensible ergonomic chair he sat in was transformed into a throne of bondage and pain, Shreds of his own clothing were strewn across the floor. His arms would be tightly bound behind his back, and several strands of coarse rope would be looped around his chest, burning and cutting into him. The burning wouldn't simply be a band across his chest, however. There would be circular burn marks all over his furry chest and thick thighs. His cock would have come in for even more torture than the less sensitive parts of his body. In fact, there would be a lit eigarette crammed into his aching piss hole, and he would be watching in horrified fascination as it burned down, shedding ash, threatening to cauterize his cock head.

Elliott mopped his forehead and checked his watch again. It was time to go. He picked up his briefcase and heading for the huge glass doors that lead to the real world. As he scurried for the train, he patted the pocket that held the plane ticket that would take him to Chicago and to a visit with his old school pal, Rafael. He smiled a little at the thought of seeing Rafie again. Elliott had followed his friend's exploits as Rafie jetted from New York to London, from Paris to Amsterdam, leaving a trail of discarded lovers behind him. Elliott stayed at the bank, lived with his family, and progressed in his career while Rafie just seemed to

Elliott was secretly jealous of the way Rafael embraced life and seemed to exist on the edge of turmoil. He suspected that Rafael was jealous of him as well. After all, he was successful and had money in the bank. Elliott didn't want passion and he didn't want excitement, and he was going to Chicago for two weeks with his usual hope of reforming his friend. Knowing Rafie, however, Elliott would burn his candle at both ends and end up rushing back to the safety of his cubicle at Brewer Bank

On the train, Elliott held onto the polished chrome pole. His eyes searched over the heads of the crushed commuters. They looked ured and intable. The train lurched to a sudden halt as the passengers, familiar with rush-hour screw-ups, groaned in unison. Elliott hadn't been holding on to the pole as tightly as he should, so the sudden stop threw him against another passenger. The man wrapped his arms around Elhott, which made him gape with amazement. He had a moment to absorb the beauty of the man who held him, and his mouth opened even wider.

He couldn't have been more than 20. His skin was the color of creamfilled coffee, and a mane of straight black hair fell seductively into his eyes and across the nape of his neck. As the guy brushed his hair back, Elhott couldn't help staring into the most astonishing green eyes he had ever seen, two almond-shaped emeralds resting at the bottom of a glass of milky water.

Then he let go of Elliott and slid one hand down the front of his chest. The hand came to rest on his fly, where it cupped and gently squeezed Elliott's cock and balls. The brief touch made goosebumps break out all over Elliott's body

The train was in motion again, and the young man was swimming through the crowd. This must be his stop! Without thinking, Elliott went after him The crowd held him upright as the train once again jerked to a halt. The doors opened, and people surged out. Elliott squeezed through the other passengers and out onto the Tremont Station platform. The green-eyed Asian had disappeared into the crowd. Elliott hurried up the stairs and searched for the jet-black head. Suddenly he spotted him, about a block ahead

The young man's single, furtive touch had made Elhott hungry for more. He intended to catch up with the young man and convince him to return with him to a cheap motel in Manhattan, no more, no less. He attempted to ignore the dangerous neighborhood. This was not the part of Chinatown where tourists went in search of the safely exotic. The neighborhood consisted of row after row of cheap housing and endless, reeking alleyways. Out of each window hung either laundry or the matron of the house. Greetings and obscenities floated down from the top-floor windows and, from the street, bent-over Amahs and sullen, blank-faced Chinese youths responded in kind. Elliott removed his tie and jacket and hastily stuffed them into his briefcase. He didn't want to look any more employed than the local social-service investiga-

He followed the young man further up the street, wondering when to make his move. It never dawned on him that his lust might be one-sided. As if reading Elliott's mind, the young man turned and smiled, his eyes twinkling seductively. The banker sidestepped a group of Asian teenagers as they hung out around the steps of a tenement, playing cards and laughing. Asian music blared out of a batterypowered boom box, the tunes familiar but the words incomprehensible to Elliott

The boy had entered the last building on the block. Elliott ran ahead and reached the entrance just as the boy turned at the top of the stairs. Elliott bounded up the stairs two at a time. When he reached the top floor, he saw three apartments. The door in the middle was open. Elliott rushed through the open door and closed it behind him. He leaned against the cool wood, realizing that what he had just done was totally out of character.

Normally, Elliott would still have been standing, dumbfounded, on the subway platform, his body weaving back and forth in a gesture of indecision that Rafie had always mocked. Ha, if Rafael could see him now! Still, another voice urged in his head, wasn't there something not quite right about all of this? Why would a guy this beautiful be seducing him? And even if the guy really did want him, it was almost nightfall. How was Elliott going to get himself out of this neighborhood alive? He had to get out. He turned to the door and began to fumble with the knob.

"You're not leaving?" It was more a statement than a question. The boy appeared from around the corner of the apartment. It had started to get dark and the apartment lights were off but, even in the half-light, Elliott could see that the boy had removed his shirt. His jeans were tucked into shirty leather boots.

"It's late. I shouldn't have followed you," Elliott stuttered. "Your family."

"I live alone here . . . now On the street they call me Wing,"

He walked closer to Elliott and the smell of beer and tobacco assailed Elliott's nostrils. Why hadn't he noticed that on the train? They had been so close

"I guess I could stay for a beer. My name is-"

"I know what your name is, Elliott. Elliott José, the very obvious Latino who sits by the door and decides the fate of those less fortunate than himself."

Elliott felt the boy take his briefcase. Wing placed it on the floor and reached for Elliott's hand, guiding him through the large apartment, past closed doors, and into a kitchen.

"I don't control people's lives, I just approve loans. And how do you know

Elliott sat at the kitchen table and took the beer that Wing handed to him Despite his apprehension, he felt dizzy in the boy's presence. Wing moved with a sexual grace and assurance that Elliott associated with only the most aggressive of Latinos, not with a Chinese boy who was young enough to be Elliott's son.

"I've watched you for a long time. I've followed you before but kept a discreet distance. I didn't want you to see me until it was time for us to meet." Wing pulled a chair from the table and straddled it, sipping his beer slowly. Elliott watched the studied movements and found himself fascinated by the motions the boy's throat made with each swallow.

Suddenly, the green eyes twinkled and from Wing's mouth came the perfect mimic of a middle-aged Anglo "I'm terribly sorry, Mr. José, but my broker specifically requested that I deal only with you. Vacation, you say? Two weeks? Good lord, man, are you joking? I need this deal approved to-day!" Wing roared with hysterical laughter.

"You! You're the man who called this afternoon. You've been calling me at work! But why?!"

"Let's say that I wanted to spend time with a man who makes such important decisions. But who is not too important to follow a beautiful boy home to his ghetto palace. Do you live in a ghetto palace, Mr. José?" Wing stood up and walked close to Elliott.

Standing naked, Elliott shivered from the cold and from embarrassment. Wing squeezed Elliott's tightly clenched buttocks before slapping them hard with the palm of his hand.

His crotch bulged suggestively and, despite his fear, Elliott wanted very badly to liberate that bulge.

"Of course not! I live a few blocks from here, in a studio apartment, I have for years and years."

"So you're not the sell-out I thought. Nevertheless, you are here. I want to show you something."

Wing vanished into another room and it occurred to Elhott that this would be the perfect time to run like hell. But before he could escape, Winghad reappeared with an eight-by-ten framed photograph. He set the photograph down on the table in front of Elhott. As Elhott studied it, he realized that the man in the picture looked familiar. He was a handsome gentleman of about 50 or 55, his temples streaked with gray

"Your father?" Elliott asked as he studied the photograph,

"Yes." Wing had inherited his tather's mass of straight black hair. The eyes were as green as his son's.

"In fact, Mr. José, let me tell you a story about my father, Pao Chin. Once upon a time, there was a married couple. They lived on a prosperous farm in Shansi. The farmer's wife read much.

Because her husband worked hard, she had much. But she wanted more, She watched American movies on videotape and got relatives in this country to send her forbidden American magazines. She wanted to be like the American woman, emancipated and free and glamorous. She harassed Pao Chin until he finally gave in and brought his small family to New York: my mother, my younger sister, and me. In two years, the money he had from the sale of his farm had been spent by a greedy wife and an ungrateful daughter. His son joined a Tong and disgraced him further. You know what a Tong is, Mr. José? What your people call abandillera, a ganga. You fucking spics think you invented gangs," Wing's eyes clouded over. "The daughter became pregnant and marned agang leader," he continued. "One day, my mother went to their home to beginy sister to come home. While she visited, there was a gang attack and the mother was killed along with the daughter and her unborn child. After that, Pao Chin managed to rescue his son from the Tong. He kept me... secure in this house. He wanted to get money to return to China and start a tarm again, the one thing that he knew he was good at."

Elhott felt as if missing pieces of a puzzle were falling into place. "I remember him!" he said excitedly. "He came to me for a loan! But he had no credit, no collateral, nothing to offer Brewer Bank if he failed."

"How could he?" Wing snapped "He had already given his wife, daughter, grandchild, and almost his son These are high prices to pay for failure. He would not have failed again, Elliott." Wing's eyes flashed as he focused his gaze on the banker. "Having been turned down at the bank, he lacked the strength to continue. He simply gave up. I found him dead in the alley. He had thrown himself off the roof to escape the disgrace of no longer being able to care for his son,"

Wing stood up and stretched his muscular torso

"Certainly you can't blame me!"
Elhott cried He began to rise, and Wing pushed him back into the chair.
In a flash, a switchblade glistened in the subdued lighting. Elliott ceased struggling and stared, terrified, at the weapon that shone so menacingly in the boy's hand.

"You are everything that is wrong in this city. You represent an establishment that does not care. But you also represent in a funny way the father I have lost. Get up. I have something you must see."

Wing shoved Elliott into the darkened hallway, the sharp point of his blade pushing through the thin material of Elliott's shirt. They entered a dimly lit room and, as Elliott's eyes began to adjust, he could make out the shadows of furniture. Chains glistened against the wall. Beautiful lacquered cabinets held instruments of torture and sexual gratification.

"My father feared very much for me after losing his daughter." Wing said. "I was his only son. He could not trust me to stay away from the troubles that had plagued his family. He was quite the disciplinarian, my dad. For several months this was my home."

Wing drew back an elegant antique screen decorated with a scene of a tiger locked in combat with a bleeding, darkeyed warrior. Behind it stood a six-foot-by-six-foot cell. Elliott looked at the cage and then back to Wing with horror. "What are you planning? Are you crazy? I have family, friends, a business, they'll look for me." Sweat began to soak Elliott's clothing.

"For at least two weeks you won't be missed, Elliott. And now, I think that you had better get out of those clothes. It will make this more pleasurable."

Wing's voice was menacing. Elhott began removing his clothes slowly. He was afraid now, and even the beauty of his captor didn't make his predicament any more bearable. Standing naked, Elliott shivered from the cold and from embarrassment. Wing squeezed Elliott's tightly clenched buttocks before slapping them hard with the palm of his hand. Confused at his body's response, Elliott thed to cover his growing erection with his hands

"You have a nice body, Mr. Banker Man. A little chubby from living off the fat of the land. But you will lose weight in the cage."

Elhott was no match in strength for the muscled Asian and within moments he was a prisoner, locked behind steel bars. Wing left him alone in the darkness with nothing but the sound of his own heartbeat

Elhott rapidly lost track of the days. The windows had been blacked out and the sounds from the street below barely filtered through the walls. He wanted to scream but realized no one in this neighborhood would respond. He relied on Wing for his food and drink. His life rested in the hands of the vengeful young man. He gradually found himself looking forward to Wing's visits, his only contact with life.

An opening door awakened Elliott. He squinted against the light as it fell across his face. Wing bolted the door behind him and stood in front of Elhott. Despite his fear and loathing of Wing, Elliott could not resist recognizing that the boy had grown even more desirable as his jailer. Wing came to the front of his cell and ran one palm over the stubble on Elliott's face. His touch was gentle, and Elliott found it hard to believe that this beautiful young man was capable of kidnapping

"You will be so much happier when you have accepted your fate. I have been there and, believe me, it is not as bad as you make out." Wing closed the distraught man in his arms, crooning softly as he stroked the dirty, naked body. He kissed the banker's face, softly at first and then more passionately until Elliott's sobs turned to murmurs of gratitude. It felt strange to be embraced with cold metal bars between their bodies.

"There, you see? I can make it all better. All you have to do is trust me." Wing's strong arms held Elliott tightly. "And now I think you are hungry." He unlocked the cage door and pushed two dog dishes, one filled with water and the other with dog food, into the cage.

"You're fucking out of your mind!" Elliott shouted, and came out of the cage to confront his jailer.

"And you're a slow learner!" Wing snapped. He walked briskly across the room and removed a cat-o'-nine tails from one of the tall cahinets. Before Elliott had a chance to brace himself, the knotted braids whistled through the air, stinging his exposed body. The strands clung to him and wrapped themselves around his torso; the pain was agonizing. He was too weak to keep his arms up to protect himself, and sank to the floor. He crawled back into the cage to escape the blows raining mercilessly upon his body.

"It doesn't have to be this hard!" Wingadmonished. Elhott curled up in a corner of the cage, sobbing uncontrollably. What the hell had he done to deserve such brutal treatment? Those brief moments in Wing's arms had been so good. He had felt safe and hand and raised his head ever so slightly.

Several feet away from the cage, Wing stood absolutely still, his breathing labored and his body glistened with sweat. His eyes flashed, and his handsome features took on a look of longing. There was no contempt in his face, Elhott was sure of that. It was a face full of desire. Elhott had no choice He had to try to be the man Wing wanted

"May I eat now . . . Sir?" Elliott murmured into the darkness of his corner

Wing locked the barred door. "You can eat as long as you stay on the floor. Animals don't walk upright. And make no mistake, banker boy. You are my animal!"

Wing's words stung Elhott. How dare this barbarian call him an animal after what he had done? But Elhott was hungry, he would not protest now. The smell of the pet food made Elhott's stomach turn, but he lowered his face into the dish and hungrily wolfed it down.

"Rewards come swiftly here for obedience, Elliott, you'll see that."

Wing turned off the amber light and shut the outer door of the room behind him.

Elhott had curled up in one corner of his cell. Weeks must have passed since that horrible encounter with the whip, and Elhott's loneliness had grown. Maybe someday Wing would leave him here and not return. Then he thought he heard the doorknob rattle. "Sir? Wing?" he said in a stage whis per Elliott was careful not to cry out too loudly, afraid of angering his captor.

Eventually the door opened and the outside light briefly illuminated Wing.

"Come here, Elliott. Come to the edge of your cage."

Wing's voice was calm yet authoritative as he placed one hand against the bars of the cage. Elliott's first instinct was to hold the hand to his face and smother it with appreciative kisses.

"Stand here, close to the bars. I have something for you," the boy said

Elhott stood obediently, his body pressed against the bars. Wing's touch and the cool press of the steel bars caused his cock to rise until it had grown hard enough to pass through the bars. Wing's hands were gentle as he tugged on Elhott's nipples. Elhott winced as Wing's expert manipulation grew more forceful, and his nipples became hard and erect

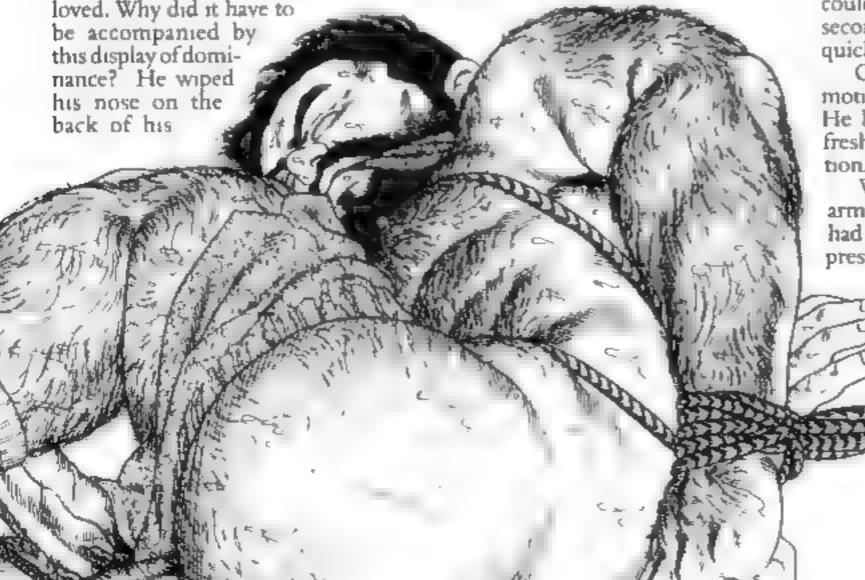

As soon as the nipples were rigid, Wing plunged a 12-gauge needle through the one he held between two fingers of his left hand. Totally stunned, unable even to pull away, Elliott clenched his teeth in a scream that stuck in his throat. No one had touched his nipples before, and Elliott had certainly never wanted them pierced. He pulled against the bars with all his strength to keep from passing out.

Wing held Elliott's nipple firmly as he slid the ring through the newly pierced flesh. Tears streamed down Elliott's face as the pain became an ache. When Wing grabbed the other nipple, Elliott used all of his power to stop himself from pulling away. He couldn't risk displeasing Wing. The second piercing hurt less, the pain quickly passing into a dull throbbing.

Opening the door of the cage, Wing motioned for Elliott to come to him. He lovingly treated and dressed the fresh piercings. "There'll be no infection. We'll be careful, for now."

Wing cradled his prisoner in his arms until he was sure Elliott's heart had stopped its rapid beating. Elliott pressed himself into the young man's arms as Wing caressed him, smoothing Elliott's hair with gentle strokes. The kisses that followed were gentle and, for all Wing's cruelty, Elliott could not help feeling safe in his arms. He convinced himself that Wing did have his best interests at heart and would not hurt him unless it became absolutely necessary.

As Elliott rationalized his feelings for Wing, he became aware that Wing was unfastening his jeans. In the amber light Elliott saw the uncircumcised meat spring forward. Wing's cock was shaped like a club, the foreskin pulled over its head. A forest of silky black hair pecked out seductively behind the denim fabric, and his fat, smooth balls rested against his thigh.

"Tell the truth, Elhott," Wing said "When you've thought about my cock, which has been often, you didn't imagine it would be very big, did you? Certainly not as big as yours. No Chink could measure up against the legendary Puerto Rican dick, could be? Well, you've been earning this for some time now, and I intend to see that you get all that you deserve."

Wing sat back against the wall and pushed Elliott's head onto the engorged phallus. Tasting Wing's cock for the first time was a heady experience. Elliott explored its contours and lines gratefully. It had been a long time since he had experienced the sight and smell of such a demanding piece of meat. Wing had been right, and Elliott hoped his enthusiasm would make up for his disrespectful fantasies,

"Take it all in your mouth and then down your throat."

Elliott's mouth closed slightly over the huge prick and he allowed only the edge of his teeth to brush against the sensitive underside. He cleared his throat to make way for the intrusion, stifling the urge to gag. Elhott began to breathe through his nose, keeping the cock nestled against his larynx until Wing sighed with pleasure

Wing pumped Elhott's face as softly as he could until he began to near orgasm. "God, you're the best. Even when my dad sucked me, he never got it all down, not like you. Suck that cock, you little cocksucker. Do me good and I'll feed you the biggest load you've ever had'"

Wing groaned and forced Elliott's head down harder until his prick was gliding easily in and out of Elliott's throat. Elliott was surprised at how easily the huge prick had found a home there. He almost fell backward when Wing began to pound and slap Elliott's back. The harder Elliott sucked, the more ferociously Wing punched him with his fist. "Ohhhhh, fucking hell You're a good boy. Daddy loves what his boy is doing! Suck that thick dick, boy! Take my load into your mouth!"

Wing continued to pound Elliott's back and slap the sides of his head Elliott was aware of the excitement he had stirred in his captor and began to chew on the massive prick that had continued to swell under his ministrations. With a yell, Wing clutched Elliott's head and shot load after load into the banker's throat, filling Elliott's mouth with his hot jizz. The creamy, white liquid dribbled out between Elliott's lips even though he tried to capture every stray drop. As Wing's orgasm subsided, Elliott became aware of his own painful erection.

"You deserve a break, too, my little banker buddy," Wing stood Elliott up against the bars. "Now," he ordered, "you stroke that hard meat until you match daddy's load. You got that?"

Elliott nodded. The memory of Wing's cock in his throat would be all the fuel he needed. As he whacked off, he was stunned by the open-handed slaps that Wing delivered to his body. Some came against his newly pierced nipples. The sudden pain shocked him, but when he saw the lust that burned in the eyes of his captor, he wanted more Slaps rained down on Elliott's body Wing struck at his bare belly and exposed legs. He taised his knee and pressed it into Elliott's balls. Despite his discomfort, Elliott's cock had never been this hard before. He arched his back to deflect the blows from his damaged chest, all the while violently beating his meat. The slaps had turned from stinging pain to exquisite flashes of heat. As he gazed into Wing's eyes, he felt a passion he had never before experienced, and he wanted nothing more in life than to please this man.

Suddenly, Wing forced his fingers into Elliott's mouth, prying it open wide. Wing leaned in close to Eiliott and spit loudly into his mouth. Repulsed, Elliott was turned on at the same time. Then he felt the heat of Wing's mouth on his own. Tears flowed from his eyes and rolled down his cheeks as he felt his entire body rise above the floor of the cell With tremendous force Wing lifted him and slammed his body against the metal bars. At the same time, Elliott lost his grip on his world, and like a dam that had suffered under years of pressure, his balls pulled up inside his body and his cock head opened up, shooting out geyser after geyser of violent cum juice

God, what had this man done to

Elhott lay on his back, as usual, in the comforting darkness of his cell His beard had grown substantially now He had no idea how long he had been here. He didn't even know whether it was night or day. The last time Elliott had dared to ask the date, he'd been subjected to the most brutal paddling of his life. It hadn't been altogether umpleasant. Knowing it was a punishment had hurt him more than the actual paddling.

Elhott fingered the new piercing in his cock. The shiny Prince Albert gave his cock a whole new feel. For some reason it had hurt a lot less than the piercing between his ass and balls. Wing had explained the purpose of the dual piercing to him. It meant that once Wing had installed the tiny padlock, Elliott wouldn't be able to piss or even jerk off without permission. The thick black butt plug that filled his asshole reminded him that he had even lost the right to shit when he wanted to

Sometimes Wing would remove the plug, rub lube around his fist, and push four fingers into Elliott's open asshole. His thumb joint would vibrate against the rim, waiting for the moment of relaxation. Elliott's ass reluctantly accepted the intrusion of his master's fist. Soon, Wing told him, there would be room in his ass for a cock as well as a fist-maybe even two hands.

Light flooded the room. His master had returned Elliott got on his back and grabbed his ankles, just the way Wing had taught him.

"You'll make a good daddy, Elliott. You already know what it's like to be Daddy's boy," The words of praise

made Elliott purr

Wingslipped his cock into Elliott as he placed the banker's feet on his chest and grabbed hold of the still-sensitive nipples. He plunged deep into his prisoner as he leaned over to kiss his face. Elliott put a hand on each of Wing's butt cheeks and urged Wing deeper into him; when his captor blasted his load into him, he wanted it all.

Then Wing did a very strange thing. He made Elhott get to his feet, and he led him out of the cage ... and out of the room! Walking on his own two legs into the blinding daylight was a shock to Elhott's system. Wing led him into the bathroom and told him to get into a tub full of hot water. Despite the unfamiliarity of his surroundings, Filiott had to admit the soap and water felt good. But he had learned to find comfort in the aches and pains that nourished his body; he felt a sense of loss as some of the sharpness of the recently inflicted wounds obbed away.

Why was Wing doing this? Suddenly, Ellion was afraid. He hadn't felt this kind of fear since the day he was kidnapped. He stopped bathing, "Sir, what's happening?" he whimpered.

"I called the bank yesterday and explained that you would be a little late, but you would be in today."

Elhott was in shock. "Certainly I've been here longer than two weeks!" Then another fear dawned. It was all about to end

"I wanted you to see what it felt like. I've done what I set out to do." Wing smiled as he swung the bathroom door shut. Behind it hung Elliott's business suit, the same one that he had worn on the day his captivity began. "You're letting me go? Why? What have I done?" Elliott felt his throat constrict and all his recent piercings began to hurt at once, reminding him of what he was about to lose. Suddenly, he found himself on his knees begging "Please, I don't want to go.

"This is how I felt when I lost my dad after all those months of having endured his captivity.

Perhaps now you can more fully appreciate my loss."

The coldness in Wing's voice made Elliott shiver. His mind began to whir This was the passion and lust that Rafael had been telling him about for years, and he was in danger of letting it slip away. He couldn't let that happen. He pulled himself together and started to get dressed. After he was presentable, he turned to face Wing. "Please, Sir, let's talk. I have a proposition for you. You miss your father, and no one can ever replace him. But I have a way I can try to make it up to you."

"I'm sorry, Mr. Burnside-Williams, but I can't possibly approve this loan.

Good day.'

The expensively-dressed white man on the other side of Elliott's desk couldn't believe his ears. His aristocratic, horsey WASP face was red with rage. "Are you insane, young man? My family has been dealing with this bank for years! There's no possible rational reason for this bizarre decision. I'll have your job for this!" Turning on his heels, he slammed the door to Elliott's office so hard that the glass cracked in two

Elliott smiled at the clock on the wall, "Too late," he whispered, "I quit!"

Almost everyone at Brewer Bank liked his new beard. It made him look distinguished, they said. Elliott picked up the phone and dialed his new telephone number. The phone rang several times before someone picked it up at the other end

"I'm on my way, boy," Elliott said into the receiver. "You know where I want to find you when I get there That's right, Lock yourself in, then throw the keys out of reach. Go do it now."

As he hung up the phone, his secretary came into the room.

"The big boss?" she inquired "Umm-hmmm," Elliott nodded, not bothering to look up at her. He knew she would be wearing exactly the same smile she had on her face every time she came into his office, and he knew it meant nothing. But that was just fine, because this place and everyone in it meant nothing to him now. His being, his reality, was centered elsewhere

As Elliott hurried out the door, his secretary watched his retreating form. Some people are just slaves to authority, she thought, and emptied his ashtray.

Construction workers, truckers, linemen! See how hunky blue collar guys "manually labor" themselves into a frenzy!

Traveling to Germany... Considered a "hub" of Europe's leather lifestyle, Drummer exposes "old-guard" leather with "new-age" SM in Köln.

> PHOTOS — ART — FICTION... ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU SWEATY AND GREASY!!

Drawing by Eric J. Decetis, reprinted by permission. Decetis's cartoons appear frequently in such magazines as Omni and Penthouse. "No Genitals" is one in a series of NobleWorks greeting cards available from alternative card stores across the United States.
